Drowned in Pond.

Owen Caywood, aged 28, unmarried, was drowned in Johnson's pond, near Mt. Sterling, Tuesday evening. He was fishing when the boat he was in sank, throwing Caywood, Robert McCarty and Walter Turner in the water. Caywood, unable to swim, went to the bottom, taking McCarty with him, but the latter came up exhausted and was rescued by Turner after much difficulty. Caywood's body was recovered about three hours later.

Circuit Court.

Upon convening court Tuesday morning Judge L. P. Fryer called the case of W. H. Lucas, charged with the murder of Wm. Sager. The case was postponed until Wednesday.

The trial of Jack Cooper, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses was next called and the case went to the jury shortly after noon. The jury returned a verdict of acquittal.

The grand jury made a partial report, returning indictments against Dan Boatwright, colored, shooting and wounding, and Fisher Williams, colored, two indictments, housebreaking and grand larceny.

Wednesday the case of Dave January, a negro, charged with detaining Mrs. Virgie Gray, a white woman, against her will, was put on trial, the jury in this case at the last term of court failing to reach an agreement. The jury Wednesday returned a verdict of guilty and Judge Fryer will pass sentence upon the convicted negro.

Wednesday afternoon the Commonwealth case against W. H. Lucas, was called and when court adjourned four jurors had been secured.

The selection of a jury was resumed when court convened yesterday morning and the box fell at noon, after which the taking of the testimony was begun, consuming the entire afternoon. About 4 o'clock the jury visited the scene of the murder.

At six o'clock only five Commonwealth witnesses had been examined and Judge Fryer held a night session last evening. The case will probably go to the jury today.

150 Dead as Result of 'Quake.

At least 150 persons are dead as a result of the earthquake which tossed its way from coast to coast in Mexico. Slowly the Government is receiving its reports from points in a rectangular area whose northern boundary is less than fifty miles from the capital and whose southern line cuts across the lower point of the State of Guerrero.

Contrary to precedent, the number of casualties in the State of Guerrero are few, but in Mexico City the list has lengthened somewhat and from the State of Jalisco many have been added to the death list.

From scores of villages where fatalities are known to have occurred reports have not been received, and the exact number of dead probably never will be known. The list of dead in Mexico City is placed at sixty-three.

In the State of Jalisco the greatest death loss appears to have been in Ocotlan, where fifty-nine bodies have already been recovered.

Tonalá, a small town in the same State, is reported as almost wiped out. A number of lives were lost.

Not many persons were killed in the city of Colima, but a considerable amount of damage was done. The cathedral is so badly damaged that a very slight shock might cause its collapse, and the tower of another church was toppled onto the roof. The volcano at Colima has displayed considerable activity but the chief meteorological observatory at the capital is authority for the statement that this had nothing to do with the earthquake.

Canada's Mixed Races.

The Bible is already sold in Canada in 90 different tongues, but 17 other races are now asking that editions be printed in their languages. The British Foreign Bible society has published the Scriptures in 424 different tongues, but it seems 17 more must be made to meet the needs of Canada's heterogeneous population.

Flower Keeps Its Freshness.

A common South African flower possesses the valuable property of keeping fresh for two months or more after cutting. It is a white star of Bethlehem, producing a compact spike of flowers on a stiff, erect stalk 18 inches or two feet long. The flowers are of a thin and papery tissue, all white except the yellow anthers. It can be sent over as a cut flower from South Africa to England, and then lasts for weeks in water.

Not to Be Judged by Size.

An interesting and somewhat curious fact is that some of the tall men of genius have had moderate sized heads. Shelley, the poet, was tall, but had a small head, and some of the small men imbued with the divine spark had large heads, apparently proving that the size of the head has little to do with the quality of the brains.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Report of the Head Physician in a Leading New York Hospital on the Cure of Catarrh.

Catarrh of the Head, Catarrh of the Eyes, Catarrh of the Bladder and Urethra, Catarrh of the large Intestines, Catarrh of the Larynx, Pelvic Catarrh, Catarrh of the Throat, and Catarrh of the Stomach are quickly cured with 'Bloodine.' Latest Idea in Rope.

A company has patents covering a rope made of several strands of paper covered with galvanized steel wire. The rope thus produced is strong, tough and flexible, suitable for clothes lines and such uses. It is claimed that a rope of this kind will withstand the action of the weather 50 per cent. longer than cotton.

Fashions in Bulgaria.
Bulgaria believes in fringes, and they are over all with the rare exceptions when the underskirt, always of the best of white linen, may be scalloped at the bottom and even then the fringe effect is used in the over tunic. For the gathering of the many threads suggests to the wearer the numbers of their nations, as is their peculiar red dyed reminder of their blood, and the flowers, and grains, and fruits, embroidered on their gowns represent their industry.

Dirt and Disease.
Dirt is the "perfect culture" of all disease and of all that delights in distaste. There the microbes of all plagues live and move and have their being undisturbed by the broom or the mop, unafraid of the smell of soap, and never awakened from their rest by the light from any lamp of knowledge that constitutes the science of modern times.

Moving Spirit of Today.
Petrol, which may be described as the moving spirit of the age, is being applied to freely nowadays to locomotion generally that future generations will probably wonder however we managed to get along without it.

Probably Would.
"That sentence is not incorrect," said the professor, "but it sounds odd to the English-speaking ear."—Harvard Lampoon.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE

Girl Tells How a Blochy Skin Was Cleansed By a Simple Wash.

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars. But after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczeema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczeema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczeema or any other serious trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25-cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

She had a severe bronchial trouble and a dreadful cough. I got her a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, and she soon began to mend, and was well in a short time." Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chance of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not if Electric Bitters be used, as Robert Madison, of West Burlington, Ia., proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months of suffering from violent liver trouble and yellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve and kidney remedy and blood purifier on earth. Only 50c at Oberdorfer's.

Why Australia Has Thrived.

We believe it to be the case that the conditions of Australia, where reward is more proportionate to ability and effort, and less dependent than in an old country upon birth and favor, lead to the development among natives of the commonwealth, on the average, of greater activity of mind and body than is found among the natives of the United Kingdom.—British Australasian.

Interpreting Our Laws.

Ellen, whose family in the old country had known her by the more prosaic name of Ellen, lost no opportunity of promulgating all the freedoms of the new country that came her way. Sometimes they took an inverted form of handing out orders to her mistress. "Ye'll be careful, munn, that yez puts no paper in th' garbage bucket. Thim is orders, munn, frum th' garbage gintlemen."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczeema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town! A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

If you have not already tried it, get at least a 25-cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.

SPORTING NEWS LETTER

By C. H. ZUBER.

Cincinnati, June 15.—The business of upsetting base ball form continues right along, and you never can tell one day what the next day will bring forth. The only approach to a certainty in National League base ball these days is that the Boston's will lose. Some weeks ago, after the Phillies had lost a fairly large string of games, the shout went up all over the circuit that they were done, and never again would see first place. Yet during the present week, despite the fact that they were minus some of their stars, they moved back into first place, and are likely to hover pretty close to that vicinity for some time to come. And it was the two wallpings which the Reds gave the New Yorks that allowed the Phillies to move to the head of the procession—wallpings, that the outside fans never thought could happen, thus again showing the uncertainty of things base ball.

The fact that the Reds are waddling around in sixth place isn't particularly discouraging, for the reason that sixth place continues to be not so far distant from the top rung of the ladder—and the season is only one-third over. Of course, it's going to take much good work to boost Griffith's men to a place considerably higher in the race than that which they now occupy, but it can be done, and it may be done before the boys venture away from home again.

It would appear that Manager Griffith has been to conservative with his young bloods, as witness the recent performances of Pitcher Bobby Keefe and Shortstop Jimmy Esmond. These boys were kept on the bench until it was absolutely necessary to use them, and when that time came, both delivered the goods. Keefe's most recent feat of glory was to hold the New Yorks to one run on Monday, this being the second time during the present season that he treated the Giants, thus. When this boy is worked at intervals of about five days he generally delivers the goods. In the matter of shortstop play, Esmond has been covering more ground than either Downey or Altizer, has been hitting as hard as either, while his general appearance on the field has given the fans more confidence than they have had in either Downey or Altizer. Unless Esmond's present form is a fluke, he'll be the regular on the shortstop job for the rest of the season.

The last Eastern team of the present series now is being entertained by the Reds, the visitors being the Brooklyn's who will wind up their stay with the game on Sunday, June 18.

Baden's men have been quite troublesome to the other teams this season, despite the fact that they are down in seventh place. Because of the position they occupy there is some talk of a change in managers, rumor having it a short time ago that Tommy Leach, of the Pittsburghs, was to succeed Dahlen as head of the Superbas.

This yarn is denied in Smokestown, but may nevertheless come true if Brooklyn will come forward with a good pitcher and a fair outfielder in exchange for the little old man of the Pirates. And Leach would come pretty near doing something with that aggregation, for the material seems to be there for a high class team. Take a peek at 'em Sunday.

Jack Johnson seems to be attracting more attention in England these days than King George. When the Sengambian champion hit Albion's shore, he was literally swamped with attentions from the general populace. Where in America his chief escorts were a few policemen and the irrepressible small boy, in London he is being escorted and jollied by the mar with the frock coat and the silk hat. Johnson isn't doing much fight talk on the other side, but he has made one crack to the effect that he would like to take on two men in the same ring on the same night—just to get warmed up after his rather long lay-off. It is possible that such an arrangement will be made during the coronation excitement in London, and if it is, look for a corner on gasoline with Johnson as the chief "booster," for he'll surely wallop any two men the tight little island can bring forth.

Once more America has demonstrated her superiority in a sporting way over the best that Great Britain can produce. In the international polo match, played recently at the Meadowbrook Hunt Club, on Long Island, the American four put to rest the best quartette that England could send over. Not only were the American ponies superior to those of the English, but their riders in every way outshone the gentlemen from the other side of the water. About the same time that this was going on, a Brooklyn Lacrosse team defeated an aggregation of Canadian cracks at their native game—and that's doing a little more boasting and a little more boasting for Uncle Sam's sport exponents. One of these days we may expect to see Americans giving the British pointers on cricket and the Jap instructions in jiu jitsu. Who knows?

Over in New York State they're hoping that the Legislature will do something during the present week to relieve the stringency in the racing game which has existed since the enactment of recent laws. There is a prospect of sufficient relief being provided by the Legislature to allow some of the tracks, notably Saratoga, to operate; and if this is done, watch for a wild rush of good steeds to the Empire State. Meanwhile the racing game in this neck of the woods is doing better than it has done in many years. The betting public is taking more kindly to the mutual machines; the owners are seeing to it that their horses are running to form, and the officials are extremely careful that nothing is creeping into the general conduct of affairs that will permit any one to talk adversely. Under these conditions the racing game is certain to recover much of its old-time popularity.

THE MUTE GAMBLER

By JANE PINCKNEY BENNETT

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The game was at its height at Monte Carlo. The main table was lined with people tossing coins upon the green cloth that covered it. Clusters of lights illumined the scene. There were men and women, too, of various ages, from the stripling to the septuagenarian. One old woman with white hair sat with a paper in her hand covered with memoranda consisting principally of figures. It was a scheme that she had worked out or some one had given her for sure winning. She scarcely ever bet more than a franc at one time and usually lost. There were men in evening dress and men whose coats were frayed at the elbow, while here and there a girl scarcely out of her teens was betting with hot cheeks and glistening eyes.

A lady—she might have been any age between twenty-five and thirty-five—in an evening costume of exquisite fabric and construction, entered the room and, handing her wraps to an attendant, went to the main table, where roulette was being played. Seating herself, she began to play with silver five franc pieces. No sound broke in upon the falling of the coins on the table, the monotonous announcements of the man who conducted the game and the rattling of the ball. One having no interest in it would wonder how so many people could be so silently intent upon so unvaried a proceeding.

Presently the recent arrival began to toss gold napoleons on the cloth instead of five franc pieces. Indeed, her betting increased till she became the one person at the table who engaged the crowd of lookers-on. Some of those who were standing behind her moved around to the other side, where they faced her. She wore a hat with a very wide brim and adorned with large black feathers, one of which fell over the front and with the brim completely shaded her brow. In addition to this, a veil extending to the chin rendered it impossible to distinguish her features.

She played with varying fortune. At first she won. Then she lost more than she had gained. Next she began to win slowly, and at a certain point, having gained a thousand francs, she left the amount she had bet and her winnings on the number she had covered. There was quite a pile of gold there, and when the ball was spun and settled into its place the croupier covered the stake with another pile five times as large. A spasm was seen to pass over the lady, and she quickly placed her hand on the lace about her throat, as if to pull it away that she might breathe easier. Her fingers remained at her neckwear, and she bent over the table till her chest leaned against it, about to gather in her winnings, as every one supposed. But she must have changed her mind, for she remained in the same position, her eyes, though they could not be seen, apparently fixed upon the gold.

The conductor, taking it for granted that she had determined to risk the whole amount on the same number as before, made the usual announcements, the ball was spun and, after rolling and jumping and hesitating and backing and filling, at last settled into its pocket. Amid exclamations the conductor announced the number that had won, and the lady's heap of gold was added to by another five times its size. She gave no evidence of the excitement natural to such winning. She did not start; she did not make an involuntary change of position.

"What wonderful self control!" exclaimed one of those looking at her. "She must be an old hand at it!" remarked another.

"Great heavens!" cried several at once. "She's going to risk it all again." The gamekeeper, who meanwhile had been waiting for the lady to remove her winnings, seeing no intention on her part to do so, reluctantly made the call for bets, the machine was whirled, and amid ill repressed exclamations the ball gave the lady another pile five times as great as that before her on the table.

Twice again the pile was increased by the same arithmetical progression, and the bank was broken.

At that moment a man entered the room, advanced quickly to the table and touched the lady on the shoulder. She did not look to see who was calling her attention. She sat apparently with her eyes glued to the immense golden pile before her.

"Clarissa," he said in a trembling voice.

There was no reply.

The crowd about the table now began to grow anxious. There was something in the mute figure that inspired them with a kind of awe. The game had ceased, and the eyes of every one present were fixed on the gambler or the man standing looking down upon her, vainly endeavoring to arrest her attention.

"Take off her hat!"

"Lift her veil."

"There's something wrong with her!"

"Some one look out for her pile!"

These words that were spoken in loud tones and others that made a confused murmur did not seem to be heard by the man standing over the lady. He stood for a few moments as if not daring to know the truth.

Then, gathering his resolution, he tore off her hat. The woman swayed, and her head sank upon the table. He raised it and looked eagerly into her face.

"My God, she's dead!"

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE SALVE FAILS

In regard to skin diseases medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid. WASH THE GERMS OUT. A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription, penetrates to the disease germs and destroys it, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25-cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief.

Klair Wins Nomination.

William F. Klair, of Lexington, was nominated Wednesday afternoon in convention at Louisville by the Democrats of the Second Railroad district, for Commissioner to succeed L. P.
Tarleton, Republican. The nomination of Mr. Klair was made by acclamation, following a hard fight on the part of Robert B. Brown, of Pulaski county, to secure recognition of the Pulaski county delegation, instructed in his favor. But as the Klair forces controlled the convention absolutely,
the Brown delegation was unseated and the contesting delegation, favorable to Klair was given the vote of Pulaski county in the convention.

News of The Diamond.TUESDAY.

Inability to connect with "Bobby"
Brown resulted in a complete blank-ing for the Bourbonites Tuesday afternoon at White Park, while by heavy and consecutive hitting and assisted by a few costly bobbles the Hustlers accumulated nine tallies.

Brown was invincible at all stages and out of four safeties made by the locals only two could be counted as clean drives. Hauser was hit hard in the fourth, when nine of the Hustlers faced him before the side was retired.
Coleman slugged the ball freely and out of four times at the plate slammed the ball for three three-baggers.
So brilliant did the visitors play that after the first session not a single Bourbonite got beyond the second station. The score:

WEDNESDAY.

The Hustlers and the Bourbonites met on the former's grounds Wednesday afternoon and the pennant winners went down to defeat for the third straight time at the hands of the Hustlers. In the seventh inning the Bourbonites looked like they were going to walk away with the game with the score 3 to 1 in their favor, with three men on bases and no one down, when a fly ball was hit to Meek in right field, who caught it and whipped it home, here Burden intercepted the ball and headed the runner off from third, threw the ball to Callahan, who touched the man out between second and third, completing a very rapid triple play. The score:
Paris.....0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0-3

THURSDAY.

Paris broke the losing streak yesterday afternoon when a coat of white wash was administered to the Lawmakers.
Shears was on the mound for Paris and pitched a great game. Of the eight hits secured by his opponents in only two sessions did they come in succession, but the Lawmakers were unable to count. In the first a neat double deprived the visitors of their only chance as only once again did they get a man beyond the second station.

The locals fell on Yerkes in the fourth and before the side had been retired four runs had crossed the rubber. The locals counted first in the second on a pass and a sacrifice, followed by Kuhlman's double.

Harrell, who has been out of the game with a sprained ankle was in the game and put up a fast exhibition.
Kuhlman held the heavy end of the stick getting three hits out of four times at bat. The score:

Frankfort.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0
Paris.....0 1 0 4 0 0 0 0-5
Two base hits—Rapp, Kuhlman.
Base on balls—off Shears 2, off Yerkes er, Harrell to Barnett. Stolen base—

Goodman. Time—1:45. Umpire—Bohannon.

The "Bull" Durham Base Ball Guide for 1911 has made its appearance, and a handsomely leather bound copy has been received. This little publication has now become the most eagerly sought for of the many base ball journals although it is just embarking upon the second year of its existence. The secret of its success lies in the fact that the rules, records, and all the necessities of a good base ball guide are presented in an easily accessible manner, so that anyone can find just what he is looking for without digging over countless ill-arranged pages.

The Bull Durham Guide is certainly a credit to its publishers, the Base Ball Publishing Company, of Boston as it supplies a long-felt want to the base ball loving public of the country.

Fiscal Court to Meet Today.

The Bourbon Fiscal Court will meet in a special session today to take up the matter of disposing of the jail property which is along the right of way of the double track of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. It is said the railroad company will submit two propositions to the Fiscal Court for their consideration. One proposition is that the railroad company will rebuild the jail property, and another is that the company makes a cash offer, the county to construct the jail. The meeting of the court will probably result in the appointment of a committee to confer with the L. & N. officials.

Ita is the Feature at the Grand, Great Loss May be the Outcome.

What is proving to be the most interesting attraction that has had a place on the bill at the Grand in many,
many long years is the little sixteen-year-old mentalist, Ita, who has been the drawing card at the popular theater for the week past.

Since Ita began her engagement at the Grand her marvelous work has been the subject of absorbing interest, with the result that each night the theatre has been packed with eager spectators, to witness the performance of the [mere] child that has set the whole town and community to talking.

With each succeeding night the girl continues to grow in favor with the public. The performance is different entirely from any seen here before in this branch of theatrical work and has occasioned wide-spread interest even among the most skeptical.

Ita has answered question after question giving the initials and then the name of the person asking the question and frequently goes into detail concerning persons in the audience. In one instance she told a young man who had prepared a question of relatives living in distant states, of a recent death that had occurred in his family and of his ancestors, who originally came from Ireland. Again she told a young lady of a trip her mother would make to the West to visit a daughter, giving the name of the mother and daughter and also told of the death of her father which occurred more than thirteen years ago.

Blindfolded the girl can add a column of figures in one-tenth; the time it would take an expert mathe-matician; she describes articles worn by persons in the audience with wonderful precision; she has given information concerning lost articles and predicts the results of the ball games in the Blue Grass League for each day.

The girl is possessed with a remarkable power as it is clear there is no means of communication and all efforts to detect any trickery has fallen short of the mark. If there is any fake in her part of the performance
there has been no reasonable explanation advanced.

Refrigerators.

A large line of refrigerators. The best stock in Central Kentucky to select from.
J. T. HINTON.

Although the heavy rain which fell early last week gave relief temporary from the protracted drought which has prevailed throughout Central Kentucky for more than a month, the intense hot weather has rapidly dried out the moisture, and reports from all over the Blue Grass region indicate the prevalence again of a most serious condition to crops and the supply of stock water.

Considerable tobacco was set by hand as a result of the rains and a still greater acreage has since been set with planters, all of which has fared badly from the effects of the hot sun,
and it is estimated that at least half
of that which was set has since perished.

Many of the tobacco plants are getting too large to be set on the one hand, while on the other large areas that were to have been planted in tobacco are yet unprepared, as it is impossible to prepare the soil.

Corn is doing well, especially where the ground was plowed early and later put in condition, as soil so prepared conserves the moisture and corn makes rapid growth.

Pastures are drying up and meadows are beyond redemption. With hay commanding a price around 25 per ton and the oats crop almost ruined, it looks as if Central Kentucky, for the coming winter, will have to depend largely upon corn for feed, as the scarcity of forage crops can now only be relieved by the planting of cowpeas and the sowing of millet and Hungarian grass.

Annual Home Sermon.

Elder Carey E. Morgan will be in his pulpit Sunday morning at the usual hour. On this occasion Elder Morgan will preach the annual sermon on "Home." In the past this has been one of the most interesting subjects Elder Morgan has handled in the pulpit and it is safe to say his discourse on next Sabbath will be equally as good or better than any he has yet delivered. A special invitation is extended to the families of the community as well as the members of the congregation to attend this service. There will be no attending this night.

A good many years ago, when the Union Pacific railroad was being built, one going across the continent was obliged to travel by stage a good part of the way. One day a coach loaded with passengers was going up and down the uneven country formed by the Rocky mountains. The drivers of those coaches were usually excellent men and very expert in driving six horses over the zigzag roads. Indeed, they were like the engineer of a rail-way train who holds the lives of those behind him in his hand. But in this case if the driver was expert he was not careful of the lives of his passengers. Rather, he was just the reverse. In going down a grade he would go lickity-split, turning curves over precipices, slurring the coach to the very edge, to the horror of those for whom he was driving.

The women, at first, when passing through one of these dangers, would hold on to what was nearest to them for dear life, but would finally cry out with terror. Some of the men expostulated with the driver, but were told so fiercely to shut up that none of them dared to enter further protest. Besides, they saw that what they said only incited him to new violence.

Beside the driver sat a young man in a checkboard suit. He did not join the others in endeavoring to stop the man's recklessness, though he was nearest to him. He kept his arms folded, balancing himself as the stage careened like a ship, both sideways and fore and aft. He was not over five feet six inches high and not especially thick in proportion to his height. The driver being six feet tall and heavy in proportion, it was not to be wondered that the little man held his peace.

The coach had made one of its break-neck descents and had reached level travelling, with a gradual ascent ahead, when the man in a checkboard suit said to the driver in a low tone:

"Been drinking?"

"Naw. Haven't taken a drink in a year."

"Reckon you're right. I could smell it if you had. Well, seem' you're not drunk, what you tryin' to spill us for?"

The driver turned and looked down on the little man contemptuously.

"See here, young feller," he thundered, "do you know what passengers gits for interferin' with ribbon holders?"

"No. Do they get shot?"

"Git shot! Do you suppose I'd waste good lead on your little carcass?"

"Well, what would you do if I were to interfere with your drivin'?"

"I'll tell you what I'd do—I'd just bring my arm around and wipe you off into the road."

The outside passengers sitting behind the two were interested in their conversation. The little man asked the questions in a childlike fashion, as a small boy would ask them, the big man always responding with the growl of a lion. When the driver spoke the last words the horses had come to the beginning of the ascent and had dropped into a walk. Suddenly the man in the checkboard suit seemed to double up like a jackknife. Bracing his back against the top of the coach behind him, he put his feet against the driver, gave a shove, and the big man landed ten or twelve feet below in the road.

This was not all. The little man jumped after him and landed beside him. The big man got half way up on his feet when the little man planted a blow on his jaw and rolled him over again. The big man made another attempt to rise, and the little man hit him another crack, with the same result. Then, throwing off his check-board coat, the latter said:

"Git up!"

This time the driver was permitted to rise and rushed for his tormentor like a bull. The tormentor was not in the line of rush, but as the driver passed he received a blow under the chin that leveled him again with the road. He was allowed to rise after this when knocked down and every time he arose was sent back where he came from. He was a strong man, but his adversary played with him as a cat would play with a mouse. Finally the driver's strength was all spent, and he lay in the road like a log.

One of the outside passengers had caught the reins and brought the horses to a stand, and the passengers had witnessed the fray.

As soon as it was evident that the lion could neither bite nor roar any more every passenger jumped from the coach and surrounded the little man. Every man grasped his hand and every woman kissed him. He looked very much disconcerted, as though he were getting credit for whipping a rebellious terrier.

"You don't understand," he said. "Understand what?" some one asked. "Why, this is in the line of my business."

"You bet!" shouted one of the party. "You don't know who I am. I'm the champion featherweight of the world, and I'm going to Frisco to give Sandy Blake a chance to get it away from me."

Climbing to the driver's seat, he took the reins and, leaving the vanquished man lying in the road, drove on as if he had been as used to the ribbons as to the gloves. What became of the driver none of the passengers ever knew or cared.

After The Grippe

"I am much pleased, to be able to write and thank you for what Cardui has done for me," writes Mrs. Sarah J. Gilliland, of Siler City, N. C.

"Last February, I had the Grippe, which left me in bad shape. Before that, I had been bothered with female trouble, for ten years, and nothing seemed to cure it."

"At last, I began to take Cardui. I have taken only three bottles, but it has done me more good than all the doctors or than any other medicine I ever took."

Take CARDUIThe Woman's Tonic

For the after-effects of any serious illness, like the Grip, Cardui is the best tonic you can use.

It builds strength, steadies the nerves, improves the appetite, regulates irregularities and helps bring back the natural glow of health.

Cardui is your best friend, if you only knew it. Think of the thousands of ladies whom Cardui has helped! What could possibly prevent it from helping you?

Remember you cannot get the benefit of the Cardui ingredients in any other medicine, for they are not for sale in any drug store except in the Cardui bottle. Try Cardui.

IF YOU HAVE A SICKLY YOUNGSTER TRY THIS FREE

The family with young children that is without sickness in the house now and then is rare, and so it is important that the head of the house should know what to do in the little emergencies that arise. A child with a serious ailment needs a doctor, it is true, but in the majority of instances, as any doctor knows, the child suffers from some intestinal trouble, usually constipation.

There is no sense in giving it a pill or a remedy containing an opiate, nor is flushing of the bowels to be always recommended. Rather give it a small dose of a mild, gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, by cleaning out the bowels and strengthening the little stomach muscles, will immediately correct the trouble.

This is not alone our opinion but that of Mrs. N. H. Mead of Freeport, Kan., whose granddaughter has been taking it successfully and of Mrs. J. R. Whiting of Lena, Wis., who gives it to her children and takes it herself. It is sold in fifty cent and one dollar bottles at every drug store, but if you want to test it in your family before you buy it send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will forward a trial bottle free of charge.

Address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 402 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

HER FIRST LOVE MESSAGE

By MOLLIE K. WETHERELL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Johnny Cosgrove was a station agent on the G. T. and W. railway. Johnny had been at school with Mabel Town, and they were very great friends. Mabel lived about a mile from the station, not far from the track, and Johnny, in order that he might chat with her during the lonely evenings when he was obliged to stay at the station with but little to do, rigged a private wire from the telegraph line extending along the railroad to Mabel's house, introducing it in at her window. Then he put in the rest of the apparatus, and the two youngsters could chatter through the keys like magpies.

The principal time for these conversations was after Mabel had gone to her room and ostensibly to bed, but really to chat with Johnny. Her room was in an extension where the clicking of the key was not likely to disturb any one else in the house, though no one objected to their dialogues, because Mabel was supposed to be fitting herself for a telegraph operator.

One evening Johnny had been talking with Mabel as usual. It was a stormy night, and, being all alone in his office and consequently very lonely, he kept her at the instrument late.

Mabel had been in bed perhaps an hour when she heard in her sleep the call that Johnny and she used to attract each other's attention. Some time was required for her to wake up, and when she did she heard the machine clicking. She began to read in the middle of a sentence:

"He's gone around to the other door. I've locked it, but he can smash a window easily. There! He's getting in and coming for me."

There was a brief lull, during which Mabel, who by this time was wide awake, waited, fearing that she would hear no more. It was evident that a robber had broken into the station. It occurred to her that the first thing he would do would be to order Johnny away from the instrument that he might not be able to give the alarm. She was therefore surprised when the clicking began again.

"He has ordered me to keep on working the key, covering me with his revolver. He says the minute I stop working it he will put a hole in my head. I see his object. He knows there is no station near enough for me to send word and get assistance before he has finished what he has to do, and while using the key my right hand is employed so that I can't attack or shoot him. I can hear him going toward the safe, which he can do without risk so long as he hears the clicking of my key."

There followed a few seconds of silence, during which Mabel held her breath, and when the sounds recommenced they did not mean anything. Doubtless the robber had turned and ordered Johnny to keep on. Mabel ran to her brother's room, awakened him and told him what was going on at the station. Henry Town got out of bed, dressed himself as quickly as possible, put a revolver in his pocket and a rifle on his shoulder and started for the station. Meanwhile Mabel went back to the telegraph instrument, and when the clicking ceased for a few moments began to tell Johnny what she had done and that her brother was coming. It required some time for her to get the message through, for every time Johnny stopped the robber, who was working at the safe lock, turned and ordered him to proceed. But Johnny managed to hear a few words, such as "coming" and "courage," and knew that he was to be relieved. But whether the man would succeed in opening the safe before some one came to stop him was a question. He was evidently a skillful cracksmen, the safe was a very ordinary one, and he acted as if he counted on getting it opened before assistance could arrive. He drilled a hole in the lock and began to work the tumblers.

He had not been engaged more than twenty minutes when Johnny, facing the window as he did, saw a figure dimly looming up in the darkness without. He was so agitated that he ceased to work the key. The robber turned and sent a bullet close to his ear. At first Johnny thought the shot had been fired at the figure without, but an order to "go on" convinced him of his mistake.

The burglar again turned his back and recommenced his work. Then there were sounds of dropping tumblers, and Johnny heard the safe door pulled open. At the same moment there was a "crack" at the window, leaving a small hole. Something dropped behind Johnny, and, turning, he saw the robber lying on the floor, blood oozing from a hole in his head.

Springing to the window, he unlocked it, and Henry Town stepped into the room.

The first thing Johnny did was to click the news to Mabel, and the reply was the first message embodying love that passed between them.

It happened that Johnny had considerable cash in the safe, which he intended to send in the next morning. This the robber doubtless knew. The fact of so much money being saved through Mabel disposed of the company to liberality, and they sent her a handsome check. A year later, when she and Johnny were married, they sent another for a wedding present. At the same time they promoted Johnny to one of the largest stations on the road, giving him a commensurate salary.

The Brown Pivot-Beam Riding Cultivator.

Foot Treadles attached to the Beams which connect with the sleeve arch in front, so that the forward pressure of the foot shafts the beams in their lateral movement.

When the beams are yoked together with our unique Adjustable Spreader, the forward motion of the operator's foot moves the beams in a like direction, and when used independently, a small coil spring on each beam is brought into action, so when pressing forward with the foot, the beams move away from the plant and without any effort on the part of the operator the spring brings them back to the row.

With this construction, any desired penetration is secured through Brown's Patent Hitch in connection with levers; and in addition, the operator has the advantage of pressing directly on the beam with the foot, thus enabling him to perfectly regulate the depth of plowing regardless of the irregularity of the soil.

The power or leverage through the agency of these foot treadles is practically double that of any other device and the action on the beams is not only powerful but the beams respond quickly to the pressure of the foot.

Distance between beams can be changed quickly without operator leaving the seat. Movable axles so that wheels can be adjusted to track any desired distance apart.

This cultivator is easily adjusted to balance with any weight of operator. A test will prove it the best.

Everything is in readiness for the Epworth League Conference which convenes on Tuesday evening, June 29, at the Methodist church and continues through the following Friday night. This will be one of the largest religious gatherings ever held in Millersburg. There will be about 150 delegates present from all the districts of the Kentucky Conference, including Bishop Jas. H. McCoy from Birmingham, Ala. This promises to be the most interesting meeting of its kind in the history of the Kentucky Conference, as the Epworth League Conference is a new feature in the conference work, having been only identified with it the past few years. Prior to this time it had been operated as a district work. It brings together a representation of the cultured, religious people. The program is an interesting one and every day until its close will be busy ones. Bishop Jas. H. McCoy will be here during the entire time and will preach on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. He is also on the program for several talks in the business meetings. He is one of the foremost men of the M. E. church, South, and it will be a treat and well worth one's time and money to hear him. The work of assigning homes is progressing nicely and the committee will be able to take care of all the delegates comfortably. The hotel and boarding houses will be able to accommodate all visitors who attend the meetings and it will be well for all those intending to do so to write in advance to Rev. T. W. Watts, pastor of the M. E. Church, South. Among the distinguished Kentuckians in the Epworth League work who will be present will be Prof. J. G. Crabbe, President Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, Richmond; Mrs. J. E. Grubbs, Winchester; Mrs. J. O. Newland, Stanford; Dr. Josephine Hoggins, Frankfort; Mrs. J. H. Spillman, Harrodsburg; Miss Sallie Buford, New Castle; Rev. Leonidas Robinson, Shelbyville; Rev. A. R. O'Kear, Cincinnati; W. O. Fuller, Paris; Miss Violette Tennaker, Cincinnati; Rev. G. W. Crutchfield, Richmond; Rev. W. E. Arnold, Carlisle, and Rev. T. W. Barker.

Frightened to Death.

A man died at Hanley, England, under curious circumstances lately. While a boiler was being stocked at the Deep Pit, two loud explosions took place. They were caused by the automatic opening of a valve, but Samuel Raybould, one of the stokers, exclaimed: "That's frightened me to death," and, falling, he instantly expired.
